Sir,

Ref: Clinical study for Mouth Wash

Greetings from Rajiv Gandhi Centre for Biotechnology (RGCB).

I am writing this mail in connection with a new formulation developed jointly by RGCB and RCC for radiation induced oral mucositis. A clinical trial for the same was done at Regional Cancer Centre in 2016 and the study outcome was found very encouraging. Accordingly a patent disclosure was filed and is under scrutiny and examination.

Meanwhile, we approached Kottakal Arya Vaidyasala (AVS) for exploring the possibility of bringing this product into the market for common cancer patients. The AVS team is of the opinion that the acceptability of this product will be much better if we can increase the spectrum of the mouthwash by conducting a small bridging study to show its efficacy for mouth ulcers and as well as a regular mouth wash.

We would be most obliged if the PMS team can help is in doing this bridging study. My colleagues have had detailed discussions with Dr. Ambili and Dr. Mathew for taking up the study at PMS, as you have enough number of OP patient population. Kottakal has agreed that they will be able to support this study by giving all the study material along with service of an Ayurveda doctor if necessary.

We will appreciate your help and support in bringing this product to market and help the general population by considering the conduct of this study proposal. RGCB will support all the off-line studies required in RGCB laboratory.

Warm Regards

Yours truly
